

A Delta Screens Lunch and Learn is a unique opportunity to become more familiar with the screens that play integral roles in successful, filtration, media retention, liquid/gas, and solid/gas separation.

Presented by experienced and technically competent personnel, Lunch & Learn seminars are held at your workplace or can be scheduled to include a tour of our state-of-the-art manufacturing facility. These informal lunch sessions allow us to gain a better understanding of your current challenges and share best industry practices and innovative developments that impact your industry.

Our goal at Delta Screens, is to become system partners with our customers such that we develop, coordinate, supply and deliver comprehensive solutions to your processing problems. To do this the best we can, we need customers who are aware of current technologies, whom we can work with to develop high quality products, that offer low operating and maintenance costs, while providing maximum performance and functionality.
